GENERAL

This report presents statistics on the social and economic characteristics of the civilian population of the United States living abroad on April 1, 1970. All the data were collected on a 100-percent basis. "Living abroad" is defined as residing outside the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the outlying areas of United States sovereignty or jurisdiction. This population includes Federal civilian employees, dependents of all Federal employees, crews of merchant vessels, and other United States citizens living abroad. Americans temporarily abroad on vacations, business trips, etc., are excluded. The Americans included in the present report are not included in the resident population of the United States, and, except in a few special cases, they are not included in the tables of other reports of the 1970 census.

The statistics in this report do not include members of the Armed Forces abroad. However, about one million members of the Armed Forces living abroad were enumerated in the 1970 census. Data for the Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps personnel stationed abroad were provided by the Department of Defense, rather than by enumeration on census forms. U.S. Navy and Coast Guard, as well as American Merchant Marine personnel, were enumerated on the Military and Maritime Personnel Form D-21. Age and sex distributions for all Armed Forces abroad are shown in table 49 of Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary."

A major portion of the information compiled from the 1970 Census of Population appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, which focuses on the presentation of data for States, counties, places, and other areas of the United States. The present report is part of Volume II, Subject Reports, wherein most reports concentrate on the presentation of national and regional data for a particular subject. A list of Volume II subject reports from the 1970 census is presented on page II. For a description of Volumes I and II, as well as other elements of the data dissemination program of the 1970 Population and Housing Census, see Appendix D, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

The content and procedures of the 1970 census were determined after evaluation of the results of the 1960 census, consultation with a wide variety of users of census data, and extensive field pretesting. A number of changes were introduced in 1970 to improve the usefulness of the census results. For the characteristics shown in this report, the changes do not, however, affect to any appreciable extent the comparability of the 1970 data with those for 1960.

More detailed information on the technical and procedural matters covered in the text of this report can be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Such information will also appear in later reports of the 1970 census.

Organization of the text.—The text consists of this introduction and Appendixes A through D, which appear after the tables. The introduction contains information relating specifically to the principal subjects of this report, such as definitions of terms. Appendix A provides general information concerning the presentation of data in this series of reports and the collection and processing procedures relating to the 1970 count of the overseas population. Appendix B provides brief definitions and explanations of subjects covered in cross-classifications in this report. Appendix C presents information on sources of error in the data and on editing and allocation procedures. Appendix D summarizes the data dissemination program.

Content of the tables.—Tables 1 through 5 present data for the civilian population of the United States living abroad by group, i.e., Federal civilian employees, dependents of Federal employees, crews of merchant vessels, and "other citizens." Tables 6 through 12 contain data on characteristics such as age, family composition, marital status, school enrollment, and occupation for Federal civilian employees by major area and country of residence.

Similar data are shown in tables 13 through 16 for dependents of members of the Armed Forces, in tables 17 through 20 for dependents of Federal civilian employees, and in tables 21 through 30 for "other citizens."

RELATED MATERIALS

1970 census reports.—Statistics on Americans residing abroad are published in chapters A and B of the 1970 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary." Population totals by overseas group are presented in table 1 in chapter A. Age and sex distributions are shown in table 49 in chapter B. Chapters A and B were originally published as paperbound reports in Series PC(1)-A, Number of Inhabitants, and Series PC(1)-B, General Population Characteristics, respectively.

Reports from earlier censuses.—Information for 1960 on Americans residing abroad were published in the 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, tables 43, 45, 48, and 67. Data on age, sex, color, marital status, and nativity are presented in these tables. Statistics on the social and economic characteristics are presented in the 1960 Census of Population, Volume III, PC(3)-1C, Americans Overseas. In the 1950 census, data are available from the 1950 Census of Population, Volume II, Characteristics of the Population, Part 1, "United States Summary."

Unpublished data.—For most Volume II reports, statistics in addition to those published in the report are available on a reimbursable basis from computer tape files. Data shown for selected countries of residence are available for other countries, and, in a number of instances, the data for some characteristics can be obtained in greater detail than shown in the report. Requests for unpublished data, giving a specific description of the figures desired, should be made in writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Inquiries concerning unpublished data should be transmitted to the Bureau as soon as possible since tape files are not maintained indefinitely.

POPULATION LIVING ABROAD

Persons included in the population of the United States living abroad are those civilians who returned an Overseas Census Report (Form D-23, see Appendix B) or, for crews of vessels, a Report for Military and Maritime Personnel (Form D-21, see Appendix B), provided they reported themselves as United States citizens or reported a previous State of residence in the United States. In addition, the spouse and children of such persons were included regardless of citizenship or previous residence.

Federal civilian employees.—This category includes those persons who reported that they were currently working for an agency of the United States Government.

Dependents of Federal employees.—Included in this category are spouses, children, and other relatives in the household of a Federal employee (including members of the Armed Forces). For members of the Armed Forces not living with the family but on post or aboard ship, the spouse and other members of the family are classified as dependents. These dependents were identified during the code-edit operation on the basis of information requested on Form D-23.

This category, "dependents of Federal employees," excludes spouses, children, or other relatives who were Federal employees.

Crews of merchant vessels.—Civilian officers and crewmen on vessels of American registry at sea and with a foreign port as their destination or in a foreign port on April 1, 1970, are included in this category. Since information on the exact location of many of these vessels was not collected, persons aboard vessels are not distributed by country of residence. Moreover, since the persons were enumerated on the Report for Military and Maritime Personnel (D-21), not all the information collected for the other segments of the population abroad was available for this group.

"Other citizens."—This segment of the population abroad includes all persons not identified as belonging to any one of the other groups of overseas population. Included in this group are such persons as private businessmen, employees of foreign governments or international organizations, retired persons, missionaries and religious workers, students, and their family members.

MAJOR AREAS OF RESIDENCE ABROAD

Geographic detail on residence is provided in this report for Federal civilian employees, dependents of Federal employees, and "other citizens." Crews of merchant vessels are classified as "at sea"; therefore, no such detail is provided for this group.

The seven major geographic areas that are shown exclude by definition the United States, Puerto Rico, and outlying areas of United States sovereignty or jurisdiction. The major areas are Africa, America, Canada, Mexico, Asia, Europe and U.S.S.R., and all other.

For the specified overseas groups, data also are shown separately for countries with 500 or more persons in the following categories: (a) Federal civilian employees and their dependents, or (b) dependents of Armed Forces, or (c) "other citizens." Statistics are presented for Southern Africa and Vietnam, countries with fewer than 500 dependents of Armed Forces. Although more than 500 dependents of Federal civilian employees and dependents of Armed Forces were enumerated in China, data are not shown separately for China. The detailed list of foreign countries used in the 1970 census is shown in Appendix B.

USES AND LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

The information presented in this report provides an indication of the size and the social and economic characteristics of the United States population living abroad, as it relates to the staffing of international programs conducted by the United States Government, on the one hand, and, on the other, as it relates to the activities of private citizens and organizations in the areas of business, religious organizations, and educational activities.

Since the enumeration of "other citizens" was conducted on a voluntary basis, the count of this segment of the American population living abroad is not complete. Persons living in remote areas may not have been aware that the census was being taken, or, if aware, may not have had access to the questionnaire, and some persons through indifference or by design may have failed to obtain and fill out a questionnaire. The understatement may differ substantially from one category of persons living abroad to another and from one area to another.

[1] Excludes U.S. citizens temporarily abroad on private business, travel, etc. Such persons were enumerated at their usual place of residence in the United States as absent members of their own households.

[2] Based on 20-percent sample of reports received. Excludes "other citizens."

[3] Represents U.S. citizens abroad for extended period and their family members. Since this population was enumerated on a voluntary basis, its coverage is probably less complete than that of other categories of Americans abroad.

[4] Based partially on tabulations provided by Department of Defense.

COMPARABILITY WITH OTHER DATA

Selected groups of Americans living abroad have been counted in decennial censuses since 1900. Because of the increased number of Americans overseas, the 1960 enumeration was extended to cover all types of Americans residing abroad, particularly those designated here as "other citizens" (see table I). Furthermore, the content of the questionnaire was expanded in order to obtain additional information on the demographic, social, and economic characteristics of Americans abroad.

PRESENTATION OF THE DATA

Derived figures (percents, medians, etc.).—Percents, medians, and means, as well as certain rates and ratios, are shown in Volume II reports. For all types of derived figures in this report, the figure is not presented (but indicated by three dots "...") if the base is smaller than 25.

The reader should exercise caution in the use and interpretation of data for very small subgroups of the population; these data are especially subject to the effects of misreporting and processing errors.

Percents that round to less than 0.1 are not shown but indicated as zero (i.e., "—"). The median, which is a type of average, is the middle value in a distribution; i.e., the median divides the distribution into two equal parts—one-half of the cases fall below the median and one-half of the cases exceed the median. When the median falls in the lower terminal category of an open-end distribution, the method of presentation is to show the initial value of the next category followed by a minus sign; thus, for example, if the median falls in the category "Less than $250," it is shown as "$250—." When the median falls in the upper terminal category of an open-end distribution, the method of presentation is to show the initial value of the terminal category followed by a plus sign; thus, for example, if the median falls in the category "$10,000 and over," it is shown as "$10,000+." The mean is the arithmetic average derived by adding the values in a particular distribution and dividing by the number of units in the distribution.

Symbols.—A dash "—" signifies zero. Three dots "..." mean not applicable, or that the base for the derived figure is too small for it to be shown. The symbol "(NA)" means not available.

DATA COLLECTION PROCEDURES

The 1970 census of civilian Americans living abroad was conducted through self-enumeration as in 1960. Two specially designed census questionnaires were used to enumerate the population abroad; Form D-23, 1970 Overseas Census Report, and Form D-21, Report for Military and Maritime Personnel. Facsimiles of these two questionnaires are presented on pages App-10 to App-16.

The information for the civilian population abroad, except those at sea, was collected on Form D-23. All crews of merchant vessels and a small number of Federal civilian employees working aboard ships on April 1, 1970, were enumerated on Form D-21.

The enumeration of civilians living abroad was conducted with the cooperative efforts of the Department of Defense, the Department of State, the U.S. Coast Guard, the U.S. Maritime Administration, and private organizations.

Forms were distributed to civilians living on military installations abroad, or to military personnel with dependents attached to them, by the Department of Defense. The completed forms were returned to the Bureau of the Census.

The Department of State distributed copies of Form D-23 to its embassies and consulates throughout the world. The embassies and consulates made the forms available to American citizens and returned the completed forms to the Bureau of the Census.

Publicity about the 1970 census was placed in the local media, and posters and flyers on the census were distributed in places where Americans frequented, by the embassies and consulates. The enumeration overseas also was aided by religious organizations with missionaries stationed in foreign countries who informed their personnel of the census through their publications.

The distribution of Form D-21 to crews of vessels was accomplished through the cooperation of the U.S. Navy, U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Maritime Administration, and operators of merchant ships under the American flag. An appropriate number of forms was sent to the master of each vessel. The completed forms were returned to the Bureau of the Census.

Americans temporarily abroad on vacation, business trips, etc., were included in the resident population of the U.S. and, therefore, were excluded from the population living abroad.

PROCESSING PROCEDURES

The 1970 census questionnaires for the enumeration of Americans overseas were not designed to be machine readable; that is, processed by FOSDIC (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computer) as were the questionnaires for the United States census. Therefore, the processing of the overseas forms involved first, an extensive manual coding and editing operation, and second, a computer operation.

In the code-edit operation, census clerks reviewed the overseas forms for completeness and consistency and assigned appropriate codes for all the information provided on the questionnaire. On the basis of other information provided on the questionnaire, the clerks supplied missing information, where possible, and corrected inconsistencies. The codes were put directly onto computer magnetic tape, which was processed on the Census Bureau's computers through a number of editing and tabulation steps (see Appendix C, "Accuracy of the Data").

The end result of the tabulation operation was a computer tape from which the tables in this report were prepared on a cathode-ray-tube phototypesetting machine at the Government Printing Office.

FACSIMILES OF FORM D-21, REPORT FOR MILITARY AND MARITIME PERSONNEL, AND FORM D-23, OVERSEAS CENSUS REPORT App-10

GENERAL

As stated in Appendix A, the 1970 census was conducted through self-enumeration. The principal determinant for the responses was, therefore, the questionnaire and its accompanying instructions. The definitions and explanations given below for each subject are largely drawn from various technical and procedural materials. Also included is certain explanatory information to assist the user in the proper utilization of the statistics. More complete definitions of the terms relating to the central subject of this report are presented in the introduction.

SOCIAL CHARACTERISTICS

Age.—The age classification is based on the age of the person in completed years as of April 1, 1970, and was determined from the reply to the question on age.

Race.—Information on race was obtained entirely through self-enumeration, and the data represent essentially self-classification by people according to the race with which they identify themselves. For persons who provided entries which indicated mixed parentage, the race of the person's father was used, where possible.

The category "white" includes persons who indicated their race as white, as well as persons who entered Mexican, Puerto Rican, or a response suggesting Indo-European stock on the questionnaire.

The category "Negro" includes persons who indicated their race as Negro or black, as well as persons who had such entries as Jamaican, Trinidadian, West Indian, Haitian, and Ethiopian.

Additional race categories shown separately in some tables are American Indian, Japanese, Chinese, and Filipino. The residual category "all other races" includes all races for which data are not shown separately in the particular table.

Nativity, parentage, and place of birth.—The category "born in the United States" comprises persons born in the United States, in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, in an outlying area of the United States, or at sea. Also included in this category are persons who, although they were born in a foreign country, have at least one American parent. All other persons are classified as "not born in the U.S." Respondents were instructed to report place of birth in terms of the mother's usual place of residence at the time of the birth rather than in terms of the location of the hospital if the birth occurred in a hospital.

The rules for determining the nativity of parents are generally the same as those for determining the birthplace of the person himself.

Country of origin.—Persons not born in the U.S. are classified according to their country of birth. Persons with one or both parents not born in the U.S. are classified according to the country of birth of their parents. Persons with both parents born in a foreign country are classified according to the place of birth of the father.

In this report, the category "born in the United States" corresponds to the term "native" found in other census reports; "not born in U.S." corresponds to "foreign born"; and "born in U.S. with one or both parents not born in U.S." corresponds to "native of foreign or mixed parentage."

Citizenship.—Citizens include persons born in the 50 States, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, in an outlying area of the U.S., or at sea, and persons born in a foreign country who were naturalized or had at least one American parent. Information on citizenship in this report is shown only for persons born outside the United States. The category "born outside the U.S." includes all persons born in a foreign country. The population totals for this category differ from those for persons "not born in U.S." under the section

"Nativity, parentage, and place of birth" which excludes persons born in a foreign country with at least one American parent.

Year left the United States.—These data refer to the most recent year persons left the United States, excluding vacation, home leave, or temporary visits to the United States. This information was not collected on Form D-21.

Length of stay abroad.—Persons who last left the United States in 1970 were asked to indicate if their expected length of stay abroad would be less than 3 months or 3 months or more. This information was not collected on Form D-21.

Local language.—Local language refers to a person's ability to speak any local language used in the geographic area of residence. This excludes persons who knew only a few words of the local language or English, unless English was the only local language. If the respondent entered English and another foreign language, preference was given to the foreign language. The category "not specified" includes persons who reported that they spoke a language but did not give a specific language. Persons who did not provide a reply to the question on ability to speak a local language are included in the category "does not speak a local language." This information was not collected on Form D-21.

Residence in 1965.—Residence on April 1, 1965, is the usual place of residence 5 years before enumeration. The information was used in conjunction with residence in 1970 to determine the extent of residential mobility of the population.

No data are presented in table 3 for crews of merchant vessels because a large number failed to report their residence in 1965.

School enrollment.—Persons were included as enrolled in school if they reported attending a "regular" school or college either in or outside the U.S. at any time between February 1, 1970, and the time of enumeration. Regular schooling is that which may advance a person toward an elementary school certificate or high school diploma, or a college, university, or professional degree. Schooling that was not obtained in a regular school and schooling from a tutor or through correspondence courses were counted only if the credits obtained were regarded as transferable to a school in the regular school system. Persons were included as enrolled in nursery school only if the school included instruction as an important and integral phase of its program.

Schooling which is generally regarded as not "regular" includes that given in nursery schools which simply provide custodial day care; in specialized vocational, trade, or business schools; in on-the-job training; and through correspondence courses.

The levels of school which may be separately identified in these statistics are kindergarten, elementary school, high school, and college. Elementary school, as defined here, includes grades 1 to 8, and high school includes grades 9 to 12. If a person was attending a junior high school, the equivalent in terms of 8 years of elementary school and 4 years of high school was obtained. The term "college" includes junior or community colleges, regular 4-year colleges, and graduate or professional schools.

Years of school completed.—The information on years of school completed was based on responses to two questions. The first called for the highest grade attended, regardless of "skipped" or "repeated" grades. Persons whose highest grade of attendance was in a foreign school system were instructed to report the approximate equivalent grade in the regular United States school system. The second question on educational attainment asked whether or not the highest grade attended had been finished.

The number in each category of highest grade of school completed represents the combination of (a) persons who reported that they had attended the indicated grade and had finished it, (b) those who had attended the next higher grade but had not finished it, and (c) those still attending the next higher grade. Persons who have not completed the first year of elementary school are classified as having no years of school completed.

Marital status.—The marital status classification refers to the status at the time of enumeration. Persons classified as "married" consist of those who have been married only once and those who remarried after having been widowed or divorced. Persons reported as separated (either legally separated or otherwise absent from their spouse because of marital discord) are classified as a subcategory of married persons. Persons in common-law marriages are classified as married, and persons whose only marriage was annulled are classified as never married. Persons classified as never married are shown as "single."

Married persons with "spouse present" are men or women whose wife or husband was living with them overseas. Married persons with "spouse absent" include those whose usual place of residence is different from that of their spouse for such reasons as service in the Armed Forces or employment at a considerable distance from home; also included are those who are separated because of marital discord.

Relationship to head.—Several categories of relationship to head are recognized in this report.

Head.—One person on each questionnaire was designated as the "head."

Two types of heads are distinguished—the head of a family and a primary individual. A family head is a head living with one or more persons related to him by blood, marriage, or adoption. A primary individual is a head living alone or with nonrelatives only.

Wife of head.—A woman married to and (except as noted below) living with a head, including women in common-law marriages as well as women in formal marriages. For dependents of members of the Armed Forces, the category "wife of head" also includes women whose husband was a member of the Armed Forces not living at home, but rather on post or at sea.

Child of head.—A son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of the head, regardless of the child's age or marital status. The category excludes sons-in-law and daughters-in-law. (See definition of "own child" below.) Children below the college level who were away attending school are included in this category.

Other family member.—Any person related to the head by blood, marriage, or adoption, who is not included in one of the specific relationship categories shown in the particular table.

Not related to head.—All persons on the questionnaire not related to the head by blood, marriage, or adoption.

Family.—A family consists of a head and one or more other persons who are related to the head by blood, marriage, or adoption; all persons who are related to the head are regarded as family members.

Own child.—Statistics on the presence of "own" children may be shown for married couples, families, or women ever married. An "own child" is a child under 18 years of age reported as a single (never married) son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of the specified person(s).

ECONOMIC CHARACTERISTICS

Employment status.—The questions on employment status were asked of all persons 14 years old and over, but data presented in this report are shown for persons 16 years old and over.

Reference week.—Data on employment status refer to the calendar week prior to the date on which respondents completed their questionnaires. Since the week of enumeration was not the same for all persons, the reference week for employment data is not entirely uniform.

Employed.—Employed persons comprise all civilians 16 years old and over who were either (a) "at work"—those who did any work at all as employees or in their own business or profession, or on their own farm; or (b) were "with a job but not at work"—those who did not work during the reference week but had jobs or businesses from which they were temporarily absent due to illness, bad weather, industrial dispute, vacation, or other personal reasons. It was assumed that all members of crews of merchant vessels were employed. Excluded from the employed are persons whose only activity consisted of work around the house or volunteer work for religious, charitable, and similar organizations.

Not employed.—Persons are classified as not employed if they were civilians 16 years old and over and were neither "at work" nor "with a job but not at work."

Labor force.—The labor force shown in this report consists of civilians classified as employed and not employed in accordance with the criteria described above.

Experienced workers.—Persons who have worked since 1960 but were not employed during the reference week are classified as "experienced workers."

Not reported.—All persons 16 years old and over who did not provide any information concerning their work status at any time are classified in this category.

Year last worked.—The "year last worked" pertains to the most recent year in which a person did any work.

Occupation and industry.—For employed persons the data on occupation and industry refer to the job held during the reference week. The occupation and industry statistics presented here are based on the detailed systems developed for the 1970 census: see 1970 Census of Population, Classified Index of Industries and Occupations, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 1971.

The major occupation groups are sometimes combined into four divisions, as follows:

White collar.—Professional, technical, and kindred workers; managers and administrators, except farm; sales workers; and clerical and kindred workers.

Blue collar.—Craftsmen and kindred workers; operatives, except transport; transport equipment operatives; and laborers, except farm.

Farm workers.—Farmers and farm managers, farm laborers and farm foremen.

Service workers.—Service workers including private household.

The sequence in which these four divisions appear is not intended to imply that any division has a higher social or skill level than another.

Class of worker.—The information on class of worker refers to the same job as the information on occupation and industry. There are three major class-of-worker categories:

1. Government workers may be divided into Federal, State, and foreign government employees. The distribution is made on the basis of the agency reported.

2. Self-employed workers are those who work in their own unincorporated business, profession, or trade, or who operate a farm.

3. Wage and salary workers are persons who work for a private employer.

Activity 5 years ago.—The questions on activity in April 1965 were asked of all persons 14 years old and over. Data obtained from this question are presented in this report in connection with residence in 1965.

Appendix C.—ACCURACY OF THE DATA

SOURCES OF ERROR..... App-17
EDITING OF UNACCEPTABLE DATA App-17

SOURCES OF ERROR

Human and mechanical errors occur in any mass statistical operation such as a decennial census. Errors during the data collection phase can include failure to obtain required information from respondents, obtaining incorrect or inconsistent information, and recording information in the wrong place or incorrectly. Errors can also occur during the clerical handling of the questionnaires and the various stages of the electronic processing of the material. Careful efforts are made in every census to keep the errors in each step at an acceptably low level. Quality control and check measures are utilized throughout the census operation.

EDITING OF UNACCEPTABLE DATA

The objective of the processing operation is to produce a set of statistics that describes the population as accurately and clearly as possible. To meet this objective, certain unacceptable entries were edited.

In the code-edit operation, the respondent's entries for a number of items were reviewed for reasonableness or consistency on the basis of other information on the questionnaire. As a rule, however, editing was performed by hand only when it could not be done effectively by machine.

Because of the limitations of computer capacity and other resources, a number of complicated editing steps were not introduced when the effect on the final data was considered to be small. Thus, there may be a small number of cases having unlikely combinations of characteristics.

If any characteristics for a person were missing, they were, in most cases, supplied by allocation. Allocations, or assignments of acceptable codes in place of unacceptable entries, were needed most often where an entry for a given item was lacking or where the information reported for a person on that item was inconsistent with other information for the person. As in earlier censuses, the general procedure for changing unacceptable entries was to assign an entry that was consistent with entries for other persons with similar characteristics. Thus, a person who was reported as a 20-year-old son of the head, but for whom marital status was not reported, was assigned the same marital status as that of the last son processed in the same age group. The assignment of acceptable codes in place of blanks or unacceptable entries, it is believed, enhances the usefulness of the data.

Specific tolerances were established for the number of computer allocations that would be permitted. If the number of corrections was beyond tolerance, the questionnaires in which the errors occurred were clerically reviewed. If it was found that the errors resulted from damaged questionnaires or from other types of machine failure, the questionnaires were reprocessed.

Appendix D.—PUBLICATION AND COMPUTER SUMMARY TAPE PROGRAM

The results of the 1970 Census of Population and Housing are being issued in the form of printed reports, microfiche copies of the printed reports, computer summary tapes, computer printouts, and microfilm. Listed below are short descriptions of the final report series and computer tapes, as currently planned. More detailed information on this program can be obtained by writing to the Publications Distribution Section, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

Computer Summary Tapes

The major portion of the results of the 1970 census are produced in a set of six tabulation counts. To help meet the needs of census users, these counts are designed to provide data with much greater subject and geographic detail than it is feasible or desirable to publish in printed reports. The data so tabulated are generally available—subject to suppression of certain detail where necessary to protect confidentiality—on magnetic computer tape, printouts, and microfilm, at the cost of preparing the copy.

First Count—source of the PC(1)-A reports; contains about 400 cells of data on the subjects covered in the PC(1)-B and HC(1)-A reports and tabulated for each of the approximately 250,000 enumeration districts and all areas in the PC(1)-A reports for the United States.

Second Count—source of the PC(1)-B, HC(1)-A, and part of the PHC(1) reports; contains about 3,500 cells of data covering the subjects in these reports and tabulated for the approximately 35,000 tracts, 3,000 counties, 35,000 county subdivisions, and 10,000 places of 1,000 or more in the United States.

Third Count—source of the HC(3) reports; contains about 250 cells of data on the subjects covered in the PC(1)-B and HC(1)-A reports and tabulated for approximately 1,500,000 blocks in the United States.

Fourth Count—source of the PC(1)-C, HC(1)-B, and part of the PHC(1) reports; contains about 13,000 cells of data covering the subjects in these reports and tabulated for the approximately 35,000 tracts and 35,000 county subdivisions, and about 6,000 places of 2,500 or more in the United States; also contains about 30,000 cells of data for each county.

Fifth Count—contains approximately 800 cells of population and housing data for 5-digit ZIP code areas in SMSA's and 3-digit ZIP code areas outside SMSA's; the ZIP code data are available only on tape.

Sixth Count—source of the PC(1)-D and HC(2) reports; contains about 260,000 cells of data covering the subjects in these reports and tabulated for States, SMSA's, and large cities.

The tapes are generally organized on a State basis. To use the First Count and Third Count tapes, it is necessary to purchase the appropriate enumeration district and block maps.

The term "cells" used herein to indicate the scope of subject content of the several counts refers to each figure or statistic in the tabulation for a specific geographic area. For example, in the Third Count, there are six cells for a cross-classification of race by sex: three categories of race (white, Negro, other race) by two categories of sex (male, female).

In addition to the above-mentioned summary tapes, the Census Bureau makes available for purchase certain sample tape files containing population and housing characteristics as shown on individual census records. These files contain no names or addresses, and the geographic identification is sufficiently broad to protect confidentiality. There are six files, each containing a 1-percent national sample of persons and housing units. Three of the files are drawn from the population covered by the census 15-percent sample and three from the population in the census 5-percent sample. Each of these three files provides a different type of geographic information: One identifies individual large SMSA's and, for the rest of the country, groups of counties; the second identifies individual States and, where they are sufficiently large, provides urban-rural and metropolitan-nonmetropolitan detail; and the third identifies State groups and size of place, with each individual record showing selected characteristics of the person's neighborhood.

GENERAL

This report presents statistics from the 1970 Census of Population on general social and economic characteristics of the inhabitants of each of the 510 State economic areas into which the United States is divided. State economic areas (SEA's) are subdivisions of States, consisting of single counties or groups of counties that have similar social and economic characteristics. In general, the statistics for SEA's presented in this report represent a consolidation of selected tabulations published for counties and other areas in the PC(1)-C series of reports for the various States.

Legal provision for the 1970 Census of Population, which was conducted as of April 1, 1970, was made in the Act of Congress of August 31, 1954 (amended August 1957), which codified Title 13, United States Code. A major portion of the information compiled from this census appears in Volume I, Characteristics of the Population. For a description of Volume I, as well as other elements of the data dissemination program of the 1970 Population and Housing Census, see Appendix D, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

The content and procedures of the 1970 census were determined after evaluation of the results of the 1960 census, consultation with a wide variety of users of census data, and extensive field pretesting. A number of changes were introduced in 1970 to improve the usefulness of the census results. For the characteristics shown in this report, the changes do not, however, affect to any appreciable extent the comparability of the 1970 data with those for 1960.

More detailed information on the technical and procedural matters covered in the text of this report can be obtained by writing to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233. Such information will also appear in later reports of the 1970 census.

Organization of the text.—The text consists of this introduction and four appendixes which appear after the tables. Appendix A describes the various area classifications (e.g., urban and rural residence, counties, State economic areas, etc.) and also explains the residence rules used in counting the population. Appendix B provides definitions and explanations for the subjects covered in this report. Appendix C presents information on sources of error in the data, sampling variability, ratio estimation, and editing procedures. Appendix D summarizes the data dissemination program of the 1970 census.

Sample size.—The statistics for 1970 presented in this report are based on a sample inflated to represent the total population (see "Ratio Estimation" in Appendix C). The data are derived from the 15-percent and 5-percent sample questionnaires as explained below in the section "Data Collection Procedures." Some items appeared on both sample questionnaires and, therefore, are based on a 20-percent sample of the population. Figures for a characteristic (e.g., the native population) may differ from table to table or within the same table when the figures are derived from different samples. (The sample rate for each subject is shown in table A of Appendix C, "Accuracy of the Data." See Appendix C, also, for information on the sampling variability associated with the data.)

Derived figures (percents, medians, etc.).—Percents, medians, and means, as well as certain rates and ratios are shown in these reports. For all types of derived figures in this report, the figure is not presented (but indicated by three dots "...") if the base is smaller than the minimum number prescribed for the sample on which the figure is based. The minimum bases are 100 (persons, families, or households) for the 20-percent sample, 132 for the 15-percent, and 400 for the 5-percent. When a cross-tabulation of two or more characteristics covers subjects based on different samples, the minimum base for the smaller sample applies. An exception occurs in tables 3, 9, and 11, which show data for persons of Spanish heritage. Although all data for this population group are based on the 15-percent sample, the minimum base in these tables is determined by the sample rate of each characteristic shown in the table. (The sample rate for each subject is shown in table A in Appendix C, "Accuracy of the Data.") The reader should exercise caution in the use and interpretation of data for small subgroups of the population; these data are especially subject to the effects of sampling variability, misreporting, and processing errors.

Percents which round to less than 0.1 are not shown but indicated as zero (i.e., "—"). The median, which is a type of average, is the middle value in a distribution; i.e., the median divides the distribution into two equal parts—one-half of the cases fall below the median and one-half of the cases exceed the median. The mean is the arithmetic average derived by adding the values in a particular distribution and dividing by the number of units in the distribution.

Symbols.—A dash "—" signifies zero. Three dots "..." mean not applicable, or that the base for the derived figure is too small for it to be shown. The symbol "NA" means not available.

Boundaries.—The data shown for 1970 relate to boundaries as they existed on January 1, 1970. Information on boundary changes between 1960 and 1970 for certain types of areas is given in the PC(1)-A series of reports.

DATA COLLECTION PROCEDURES

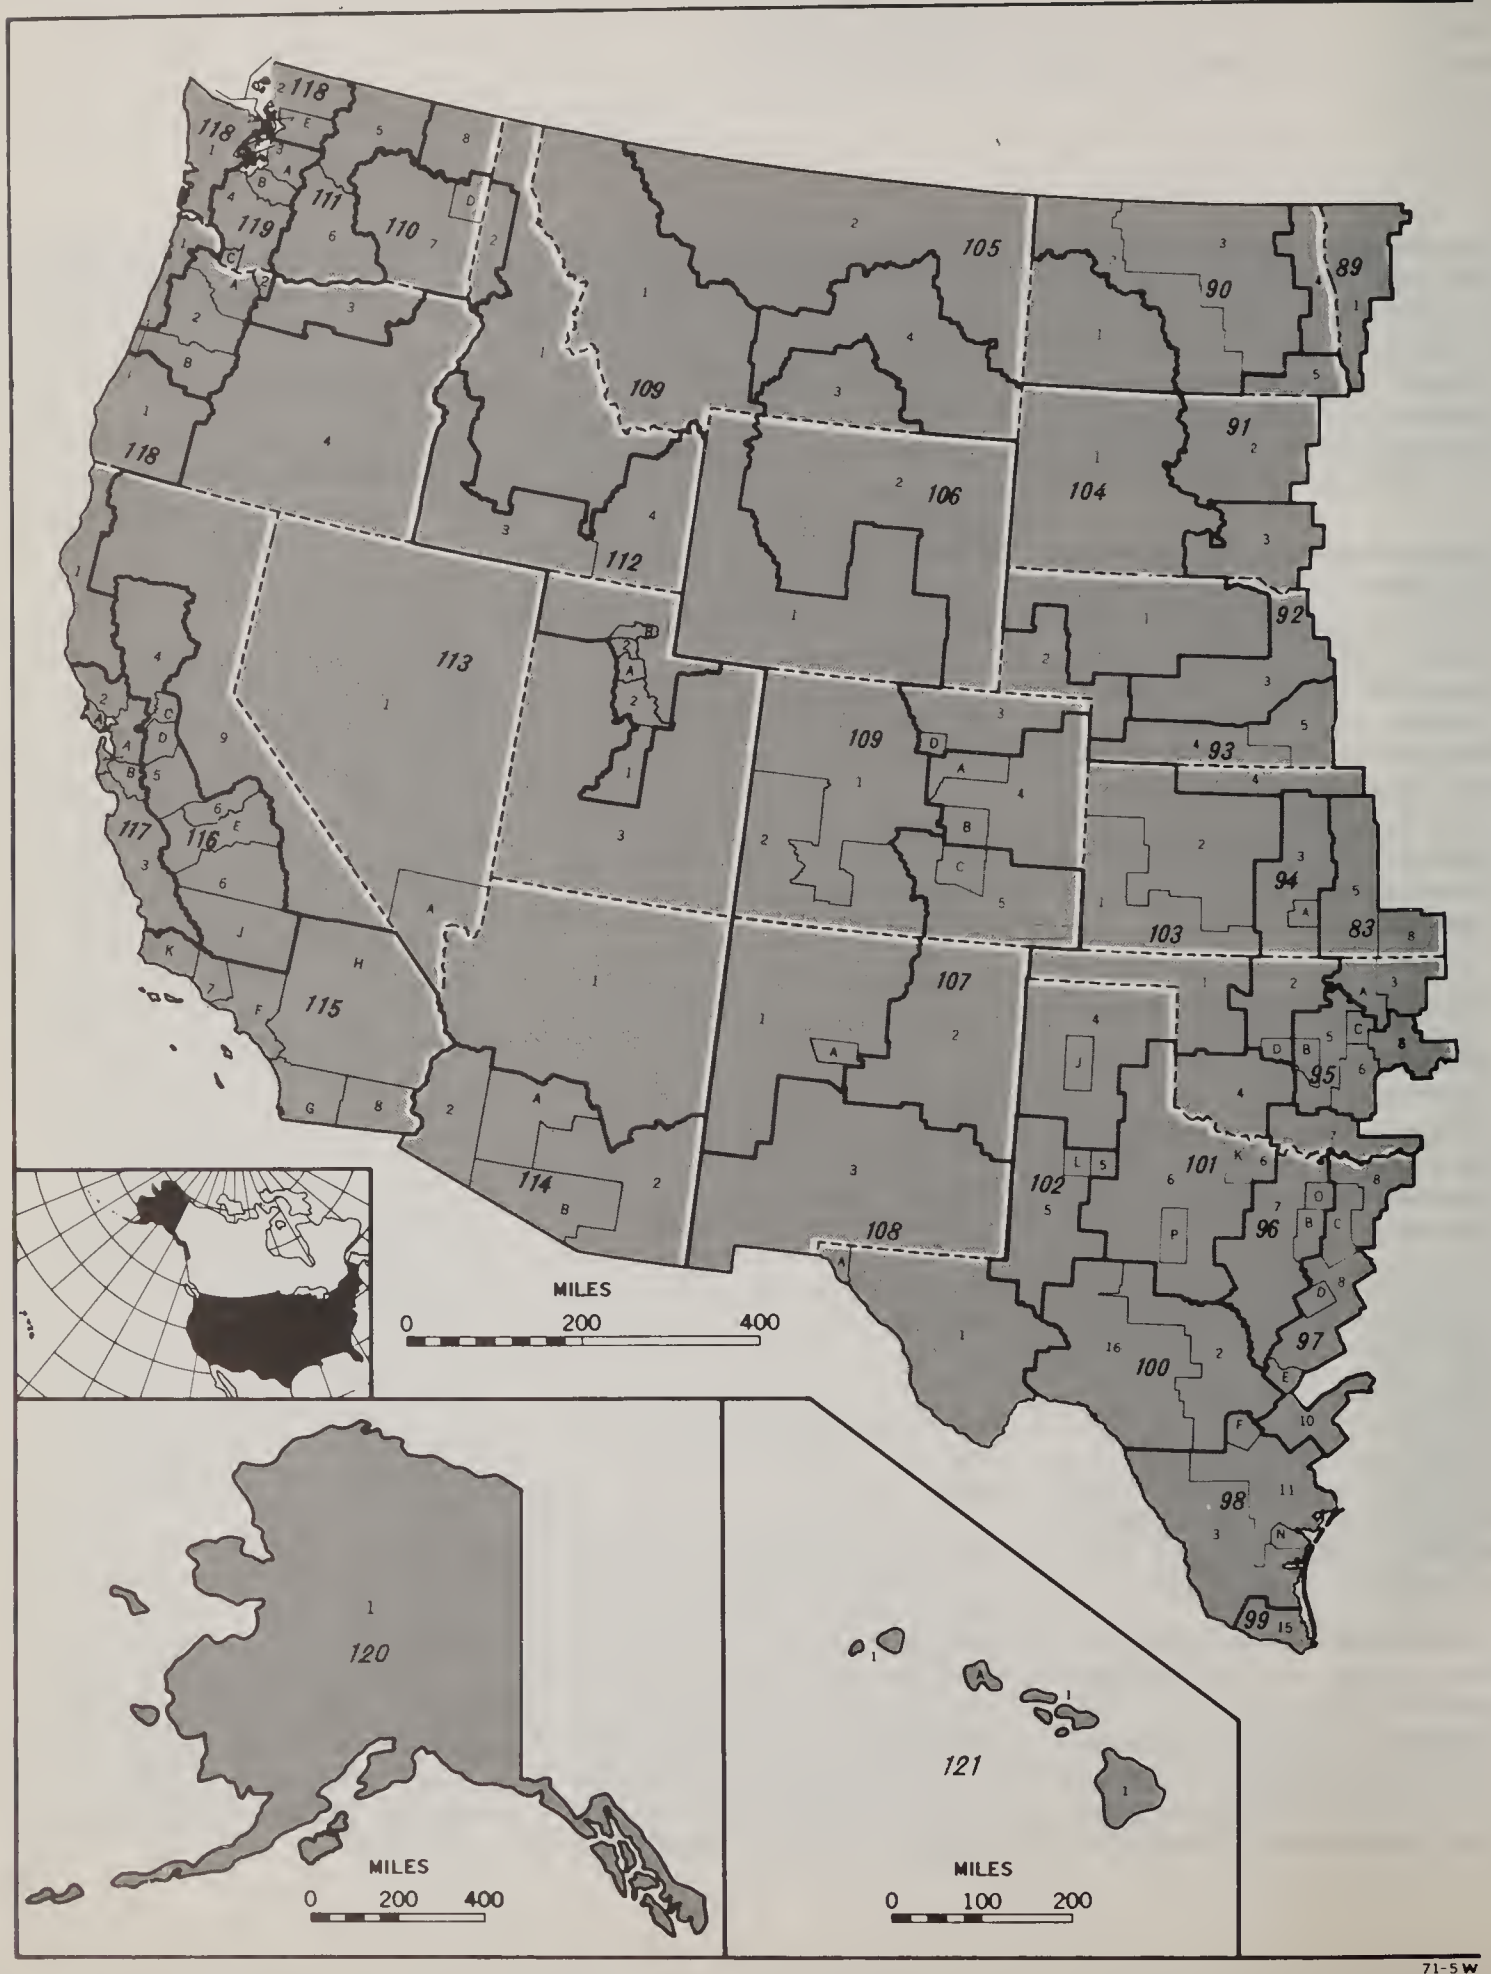
The 1970 census was conducted primarily through self-enumeration. In 1960, self-enumeration was first introduced on a nationwide scale as a substitute for the traditional census direct interview.

A census questionnaire was delivered by postal carriers to every household several days before Census Day, April 1, 1970. This questionnaire contained certain explanatory information and was accompanied by an instruction sheet; in areas with comparatively large proportions of Spanish-speaking persons, a Spanish version of the instruction sheet was also enclosed.

In the larger metropolitan areas and some adjacent counties, altogether containing about three-fifths of the population of the United States, the householder was requested to fill out and mail back the form on Census Day. Approximately 87 percent of the householders returned their forms by mail. The mailed-back forms were reviewed by the census enumerator (or, in some localities, a census clerk) and if the form was determined to be incomplete or inconsistent, a followup was made. The bulk of these followups were made by telephone, the rest by personal visit. For the households which did not mail back their forms, a followup was also made, in almost all cases by personal visit and in the remainder by telephone.

For the remaining two-fifths of the population, the householder was requested to fill out the form and give it to the enumerator when he called; approximately 80 percent did so. Incomplete and unfilled forms were completed by interview during the enumerator's visit.

Three types of questionnaires were used throughout the country; 80 percent of the households answered a form containing a limited number of population and housing questions and the remainder, split into 15-percent and 5-percent samples, answered forms which contained these questions as well as a number of additional questions. Some of the additional questions were the same on the 15-percent and 5-percent versions; others were different. A random procedure was used to determine which of the three forms any particular household answered.



In the metropolitan and adjacent areas, the designated type was sent to each household. In the remaining areas, the questionnaire with a limited number of questions was distributed to all households, and the enumerators interviewed for the additional questions in those households designated for the 15-percent and 5-percent samples. The subjects covered in this report are all drawn from the 15-percent and 5-percent questionnaries.

PROCESSING PROCEDURES

The 1970 census questionnaires were specially designed to be processed by FOSDIC (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computer). For most items on the questionnaire, the information supplied by the respondent or obtained by the enumerator was indicated by marking the answers in predesignated positions that would be "read" by FOSDIC from a microfilm copy of the questionnaire onto computer magnetic tape with no intervening manual processing. Among the items covered in this report, however, a number required reviewing written entries to determine the proper code. Consequently, the processing involved a manual coding and editing operation in which clerks determined the appropriate codes and marked the specified positions on the questionnaire; for example, the clerks applied a 2-digit numerical code for the State-of-birth entry. These marks as well as those made by the respondent and enumerator were read by FOSDIC onto magnetic tape.

The tape containing the information from the questionnaires was processed on the Census Bureau's computers through a number of editing and tabulation steps (see Appendix C, "Accuracy of the Data"). One of the end results of this operation was a computer tape from which the tables in this report were prepared on a cathode-ray-tube phototypesetting machine at the Government Printing Office. Another end result was the summary tapes which are available for purchase, as described in Appendix D, "Publication and Computer Summary Tape Program."

CORRECTION NOTE

The data shown in this report do not reflect corrections in the population counts for certain areas of States; see "Correction Note" in the 1970 Population Census Volume I reports.

Because of processing errors, income means for certain groups of families and persons are not shown for a few areas in specific tables. The affected areas are listed below and, where available, corrected means are given. The effect of these processing errors on the income data shown in this report is minor.
